Mor and I have job descriptions which doesn't include much of the other stuff that we do on a daily basis. On Tuesday our work included redirecting the flow of water from an outdoor tap that couldn't be switched off, cleverly connecting the garden hose and watering the shrubs, and then sweeping and mopping a great deal of water in the crypt that had come in during the storm we had overnight.

Managing a large old building like St Margaret's church along with a new parish centre, includes thinking on our feet, resolving issues, contacted day and night for door codes, questions from hirers, broken cupboard locks, and the list goes on. So as I write this Mor is visiting a lady in hospital who fell and broke her hip in church last week, I am working my pastoral skills to their limit on a tricky funeral, and getting the orders of services done for Sunday. It is all part of the service of the church of God.

We are both very grateful to Mark Steward who came to fix the tap, to Jonathan for allowing us to disturb his holiday to answer questions about isolation switches, to Sarah Witney who keeps us organised, clean and tidy.

In the celebration of life services last weekend and the joy of the baptisms the church family came together and did what they do best – joyfully serve, whether it was an active role in the services, cleaning the church, arranging flowers, serving food and refreshments. I have received so many messages this week about the welcome and warmth of St Margaret's so, to you all – thank you!
